

DAILY MAYSVILLE LEDGER

FIFTH YEAR. MAYSVILLE, KY., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1896. ONE CENT.

LARGEST IN THE CITY.

Purely Business!

The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "credit" free any more than a merchant can loan over his counter free articles of goods or stock. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern. Its columns are its stock in trade, and advertisements should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Calls

For the Ledger for free notices have become so burdensome that we are forced to publish the following terms:

For Notices of Suppers.

Suppers, dinners, or other public entertainments where a fee is charged, and for ordinary notices, read as follows: For each notice, one line, and hereafter this will be the universal rule. This, however, is a concession.

Do not Include

Notices of Lodge meetings or Church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Advantage of Disputes.

Misunderstandings are unpleasant. The rate for Business Letters in The Ledger is 10 cents a line for the first insertion and 5 cents for subsequent insertions. A customer orders a five-line notice. He writes: "I'll tell you when to take it out." He says the bookkeeper. But he forgets all about it. The notice runs a week and a counter-notice follows. When he finds it out there is a "blow" and a counter-notice. He is probably by an icy feeling. Now, to obviate this trouble, we "fill" notices with an accepted hereafter. Let's have a definite agreement at the outset and the termination will be pleasant all around.

All matter for publication must be handed in before 9 o'clock in the morning of each day.

HERE ARE

If you have friends visiting you, or if you are coming away, a little, please drop a note to that effect.

Mr. Henry A. Power of Paris was a visitor in Maysville this week.

Miss Annie Chandler of Millersburg is visiting relatives in this city.

Miss Marie Walsh of the Sixth Ward is the guest of Miss Jessie Jones of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Louisa Portland left on the P. F. V. yesterday afternoon for Cincinnati, called there by the illness of her niece.

Very Personal.—Postage on drop letters, whether sealed or not, is 2 cents. Many persons send their notices through the Postoffice with only 1 cent stamp. These are "held for postage." Hereafter they must contain a 2 cent stamp.

John W. McKellup of Vanceburg has been granted an increase of pension.

Mrs. Mary Brown is building an addition to her residence on Casto street.

The C. and O. is putting down a double track between Huntington and Ashland.

An inventory of the assigned property of J. F. Fawcett shows a value of $921.75.

The venerable Dr. S. M. Cartmel was seriously ill last night, but is somewhat better this morning.

The Democrats of Aberdeen and Huntington Township will hold a primary March 14th to nominate a ticket for the April election.

The Mason county free turnpike case will come up in the Court of Appeals on Tuesday next. Several lawyers from this city will air their voices on the occasion.

W. W. Thomas, the Manchester man who was burned out at Cincinnati a few weeks ago, has gotten $65,000 from forty-four insurance companies who had policies on his stock of teas, spices, etc.

FIRE IN LEWIS.

J. B. Wilson's Store and Dwelling Burned at Sand Hill.

At Sand Hill. About 4 o'clock this morning. The large storehouse of J. B. Wilson, together with his handsome residence near by. Were totally destroyed by fire. The origin of the flames is unknown. The property was insured with Messrs. Duley & Baldwin and W. R. Warder of this city.

The dwelling for $1,500; Furniture, $750; Storehouse, $850; Stock, $1,500.

The aggregate loss is not known, but it is thought to exceed the insurance.

EVERY UP.

I stole down by the brooklet side, The moon was bright.

I stole a don't know there That blissful night.

I stole a march on other men. I knew my part.

I was so good at stealing that I stole my heart.

Now we are happy men and wife. Why seem it strange

If, when I find safety in bed, She steals my chin?

—Yonkers Statesman.

MAYSVILLE WEATHER

What We May Expect For the Next Twenty-four Hours.

THE LATEST WEATHER SIGNALS.

WHITE STORM—FAIR.

WIND—EAST BY S.W.

WITH BREEZE—WILL WARM.

IF BREEZE—COLDER WILL BE.

Unless these shown—no change we'll find.

The above forecasts are made for a period of thirty-six hours, ending at 8 o'clock morning.

We respectfully invite the connection of The Ledger with any other daily newspaper in all

Northwestern Kentucky. If any one can find a daily paper printed in the South Congressional District that has

A Larger Circulation, or More Original Reading Matter,

we will take pleasure in presenting him with a year's subscription to The Ledger. And this paper is furnished at some price as inferior news.

Miss Nannie Thompson is able to be out after a severe spell of sickness.

Chenoweth's Cream Lotion will heal chapped hands and faces. Try it.

Joseph Felt, aged 32, and Miss May A. Creamans, aged 18, married in Greenup county.

W. C. Nicholson, one of the faithful water works crew, is smiling. It is a daughter.

Burglars made an unsuccessful attempt to cut through the rear door of Mitchell & O'Hare's hardware store a few nights ago.

A. M. Brooking and others have sold to A. R. Howard and Daniel Maher 95 acres, 2 roads and 21 poles of land on North Fork for $251.

Services are held every evening at 7 o'clock at the M. E. Church by the Pastor, Rev. E. L. Shepherd. The public is cordially invited to attend.

M. A. S. Dickey of Fleming and Mrs. Mary T. Wilson of Mt. Sterling married at the latter place Wednesday afternoon. This is the second marriage for each.

Subscribers in Aberdeen may rely upon having The Ledger served to them regularly hereafter. They are invited to take advantage of our free book offer.

Laura Angeline Ross has filed suit in the Circuit Court against Addison Lafayette Ross for divorce on the ground of failure to support and cruel treatment.

Miss Mae Money of Sapp, Fleming county, has accepted a position with Miss Anna M. Frazier. She will be pleased to meet the people of Maysville and surrounding country.

People who suffer from loss of appetite, indigestion, sour stomach and flatulence find prompt relief in the use of Ayer's Pills. As an after-dinner pill they are unequalled, causing the digestive and excretory organs to perform their functions as nature requires.

The case of A. Berman of Augusta against Miss Anna Hanson for the possession of $100, which Miss Hanson found while employed, as a salaried by Berman, has been decided in favor of Miss Hanson.

Nathan E. Wells, John Otto and C. P. Vawter have been appointed to set apart to S. Watkins, who assigned recently at Springdale, the property exempt by law. Watkins was given until March 2d to file the schedule required by law.

Our people are growing more and more in the habit of looking to Mr. J. James Wood for the latest and best of everything in the drug line. They sell Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds, croup and whooping cough. When in need of such a medicine give this remedy a trial, and you will be more than pleased with the result.

Hi Henry's Minstrels were well received at the Fountain Square yesterday. The performance is a very fine one. There is the black cork circle, the numerous sketches and turns, the brass band, the plaid draperies and all the paraphernalia of a modern minstrel company. Arthur Denning scored a strong hit. He is a comedian of no mean gift. Frank McNish, the original "silence and fun" man, was likewise a strong favorite.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

At Washington Opera-house Saturday evening, March 7th.

The residence of Mr. Oliver Greenlee on West Third street is assuming shape.

Ralph Bingham, the humorist, will give one of his performances at Aberdeen February 29th.

Mr. G. W. Battenback was not so well yesterday, but is thought to be a little better this morning.

Mrs. George Dunbar of Casto street, who has been ill for several days with pneumonia, is improving slowly.

The little son of Mrs. Jennie Stewart of Vanceburg playfully hanged himself and was nearly dead when rescued.

The Bourbon County Fair Company will not join the new circuit, but an independent Fair will be held this year.

The newspaper men of Georgetown have invited the Kentucky Press Association to meet in that city in June next.

Richmond's Public Building will now be completed after a suspension of work for about two years. It will cost $75,000.

Mrs. Wilson Coulter, who has been confined to her home with pneumonia, is better, and will be able to be out in a few days.

"Uncle" Sam Smith, colored, who resides on the Fleming place, has been suffering from heart failure and asthma for several days.

Mr. Abner Hord is now a citizen of this city, he having moved into the residence owned by Mrs. George T. Hunter on East Third street.

William S. Callahan has brought suit against the town of Grayson for $10,000 for alleged false imprisonment. If he wins, the town of Grayson will have to make an assignment sure.

A matter of special and great importance is to come up before the First Baptist Church tonight at the Prayer-meeting. Members are expected to be present.

I. P. TROTTER.

Congressman Pugh has presented a petition of the officers and members of Croston Post No. 2, G. A. R., Department of Kentucky, urging service pension legislation and relief of ex-prisoners of war.

The funeral of Mr. Oliver Austin will take place this afternoon from his late residence, Forest avenue, at 2 o'clock with services by Rev. Mr. Shepard, of whose church deceased was a most excellent member.

The Committee on War Claims has made a favorable report on the bill introduced by Representative Pugh to appropriate $100,000 for benefit of Bath county, for destruction of Courthouse by Federalists during the war.

Mr. Armstrong, of Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong of Forest avenue, who has been away from home seventeen years, is now a welcome guest under the parental roof. The gentleman is a prosperous merchant of Northern Texas.

Jim Malone and Grant Goodin, colored, are to fight at Vanceburg March 5th. Goodin, who is known as "Black Lightning," is backed by Captain Ed. Armstrong, Dr. P. Conner and John Cox. Malone's sponsors are a lawyer and a merchant.

For this size Clark county, says The Winchester Democrat, probably has more Postoffices than any other county in the state. It has twenty-two, three of which—Ford, Pine Grove and Winchester—are money order offices. Mason has twenty-eight Postoffices, five of which are money order offices.

The trial of the Ellis will case ended in the Circuit Court, resulting in a verdict for those who were seeking to break the will. Ellis lived near Sardinia and left an estate of about $5,000. He had been married twice, and in his last will gave most of the property to his last wife, cutting off the children of his first wife with $5 each.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Resolutions On the Death of the Late Henry Smith.

At a meeting of the Wardens and Vestrymen of the Church of the Nativity, Maysville, held February 24th, 1896, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father, in His all-wise providence, to take from us our beloved brother and co-worker in the Church, Henry Smith, who entered into Paradise February 19th, 1896; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we desire to record our appreciation of the remarkable worth of Mr. Smith's character, of his sterling integrity and his unflinching integrity in all Church work.

Resolved, That the Rector and Vestry of this Church are sensible that we have lost one whose devotion to the welfare of the parish, whose zeal and wise counsel will be sorely missed.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the Rector and a committee of the Vestry, be spread upon the minutes of the meeting and that a copy thereof be sent to the Maysville newspapers for publication.

Taylor Brothers at Washington sell the best Tobacco Cotton at 3 cents per yard.

Whatever may be the cause of itching, the hair may be restored to its original color by the use of that potent remedy, Hall's Vegetable Sion Hair Renewer.

Miss Helen M. Gould, the eldest daughter of the late Jay Gould, has presented a $7,000 scholarship to Wadsworth College in memory of her mother, Mrs. Helen Miller Gould.

Germany and Austria have about 150 3000 schools. A four years' course is necessary before a diploma is granted. Most of the hotel chefs have diplomas from these schools.

A prominent doctor is of the opinion that early rising produces insanity. Of course it does. The man is already crazy that rises in the morning before all the fires are kindled and breakfast, smoking hot, is on the table ready for him.

Mrs. Anna M. Harkness has given $50,000 to create a chair in Biblical literature at the University of Chicago.

The Western Reserve University at Cleveland in memory of her daughter, and to be known as the Florence Harkness foundation.

A French medical paper prints what is believed to be the oldest known medical recipe. It is a tonic for the hair, and its date is 600 B. C. It was prepared for an Egyptian queen, and required dogs' paws and asses' hoofs to be boiled with dates in oil.

The Empress of Russia has caused to be built a magnificent swimming bath at the Winter Palace. It covers an area of 1400 square feet, is 6 feet deep, and built of white marble. The young Empress has had a great many alterations made at the place, which are said to have cost several million rubles.

The books of the Limestone Building Association are now open for subscription to the Fourteenth Series. Take stock in a good cause. The Western Reserve University at Cleveland in memory of her daughter, and to be known as the Florence Harkness foundation.

The logic of history unites them, and makes them essential to each other, so to speak. To regard them separately is to miss their true significance as factors in the continuous process of National conception and development. We get only a partial conception of them when we detach them from the general record and view them merely in the light of the events with which they were directly associated. The services of the one reached forward and those of the other backward with an effect that renders them historically inseparable; and the popular imagination readily puts them together for purposes of homage, of inspiration and of instruction.

These two important characters were of the same pattern so far as their controlling motives and fundamental qualities were concerned. That is to say, they were both thoroughly patriotic, steady, honest and splendidly superior to circumstances. It is not difficult to conceive that they must often have chosen precisely the same methods of forming conclusions as to troublesome propositions that had never before been presented. They were widely different in mental endowments, to be sure, and yet there were some points of striking resemblance between them as thinkers and reasoners. Both of them were well gifted with what we call common sense, which, in fact, the most uncommon sense. They were always level-headed, and no pressure of anxiety or perplexity ever caused them to lose their intellectual balance. It frequently happened that little things annoyed them, and sometimes they spoke with an accent of temper, for they were human after all, but in every important contingency they preserved a masterful equanimity, and proceeded with the kind of caution that belongs to practical wisdom. They made some mistakes, of course, it was not possible for them to strike twelve every time, or they would have been gods instead of men; but when they erred it was only for the moment or on comparatively trivial issues, and their general soundness of judgment remained unquestionable.

There are notable contrasts in the case, however. The two men were decidedly unlike in some respects, and the public feeling toward them has been influenced accordingly. Washington had some aristocratic tendencies, which were at times contrasted with the Democratic theory that he so stoutly maintained, and there was a certain air of condescension in his attitude toward the masses. His uniform dignity was admirable in its way, but not conducive to personal popularity; his characteristic seriousness was impressive, but it did not put him on terms of sympathy with the masses. Furthermore, his biographers have idealized him to such an extent that it is hard to cherish an affectionate sentiment with regard to him. His greatness is a source of National pride but we do not think of him with tenderness. Lincoln, on the contrary, was a man of the people, and his simplicity won the common heart. There was never a time when he was out of touch with the thoughts and interests of the humblest of his fellow citizens. He interpreted public opinion by his sense of familiarity with the intellectual habits and emotional faculties of the multitude. His wisdom included a wholesome humor and an unfeigned kindness. So it comes that we cherish his memory with a peculiar fondness, and he is likely always to be thus favored over all other illustrious Americans.

The advertising columns of The Ledger speak for themselves. They show that people who know how to advertise know also want to advertise.

A Catholic Priest, claiming to be from Paris, on the Texas train, headed by whisky or else drugged, tried "to smash the jaw" of a passenger and was badly worsted.

The Empress Eugenie has presented to the Paris Museum of Decorative Arts all the plans and drawings prepared for the ornamentation of her private apartments in the Tuilleries.

The sister who fails to speak to the strange lady in the congregation because "I never met her," will probably find herself wandering around alone some day in heaven, wishing somebody would die and come up whom she has "met."

That there are only twenty-four towns in Massachusetts which possess no public library, speaks well for the light in which the people of this Commonwealth regard the influence of good books. What other state can match this showing?

A good many years ago when sewing machines sold for $50 a farmer living near Haverhill, Mass., borrowed one from a neighbor and bought one, says The Clarion. The principal or interest was neither paid, and the note was renewed from time to time. The estate is being settled up, and it will take something over $250 to cancel the obligation. Today this amount would buy nearly a carload of sewing machines.

BOLD, BAD BOLTER.

"Judge" Rumrums in the Role of a Real Moser.

Frankfort Special to Louisville Post, Feb. 25th.

A big delegation of Lewis county citizens, including County Attorney, Circuit Clerk and many other officers, is here to today to protest against the course being pursued by Senator Rumrums in refusing to vote for Dr. Hunter. The Senator declines to say what effect, if any, the influences being brought to bear on him will have.

Frankfort Special to Commercial Gazette.

Judge Rumrums, who has refused to vote for Hunter, explains his position in this wise: "I have voted for some time and see that he cannot win, and am voting for another man, hoping that he will attract sufficient support to win. I am representing the wishes of my constituents." Letters from the county officials of Judge Rumrums's District, which have been sent to him, advise him to support the Republican nominee until another candidate is placed in the field. I have read one of these letters and it must have been the Judge's fair ear.

Doan's Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound for imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be soon got out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

J. J. CLEMENT & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, etc.

Taste in Jewelry.

J. BALLENGER, Maysville, Ky.

WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN.

Two of the Greatest Men a Nation Ever Produced.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The greatest names in American history are Washington and Lincoln. There are others that have pronounced distinction, in other countries as well as in our own, but these two are supreme over all the rest. By common consent, the idea of comparison is left out when they are considered. They stand respectively for the two most momentous things in the story of the fortunes of the Republic—Washington was the master spirit of the Revolution, and Lincoln bore the same relation to the Civil War which the work of the fathers was completed. It is easy to connect them, notwithstanding the distance between them in point of time, and to understand that their tasks were related to similar objects and interests. The logic of history unites them, and makes them essential to each other, so to speak. To regard them separately is to miss their true significance as factors in the continuous process of National conception and development. We get only a partial conception of them when we detach them from the general record and view them merely in the light of the events with which they were directly associated. The services of the one reached forward and those of the other backward with an effect that renders them historically inseparable; and the popular imagination readily puts them together for purposes of homage, of inspiration and of instruction.

These two important characters were of the same pattern so far as their controlling motives and fundamental qualities were concerned. That is to say, they were both thoroughly patriotic, steady, honest and splendidly superior to circumstances. It is not difficult to conceive that they must often have chosen precisely the same methods of forming conclusions as to troublesome propositions that had never before been presented. They were widely different in mental endowments, to be sure, and yet there were some points of striking resemblance between them as thinkers and reasoners. Both of them were well gifted with what we call common sense, which, in fact, the most uncommon sense. They were always level-headed, and no pressure of anxiety or perplexity ever caused them to lose their intellectual balance. It frequently happened that little things annoyed them, and sometimes they spoke with an accent of temper, for they were human after all, but in every important contingency they preserved a masterful equanimity, and proceeded with the kind of caution that belongs to practical wisdom. They made some mistakes, of course, it was not possible for them to strike twelve every time, or they would have been gods instead of men; but when they erred it was only for the moment or on comparatively trivial issues, and their general soundness of judgment remained unquestionable.

There are notable contrasts in the case, however. The two men were decidedly unlike in some respects, and the public feeling toward them has been influenced accordingly. Washington had some aristocratic tendencies, which were at times contrasted with the Democratic theory that he so stoutly maintained, and there was a certain air of condescension in his attitude toward the masses. His uniform dignity was admirable in its way, but not conducive to personal popularity; his characteristic seriousness was impressive, but it did not put him on terms of sympathy with the masses. Furthermore, his biographers have idealized him to such an extent that it is hard to cherish an affectionate sentiment with regard to him. His greatness is a source of National pride but we do not think of him with tenderness. Lincoln, on the contrary, was a man of the people, and his simplicity won the common heart. There was never a time when he was out of touch with the thoughts and interests of the humblest of his fellow citizens. He interpreted public opinion by his sense of familiarity with the intellectual habits and emotional faculties of the multitude. His wisdom included a wholesome humor and an unfeigned kindness. So it comes that we cherish his memory with a peculiar fondness, and he is likely always to be thus favored over all other illustrious Americans.

The advertising columns of The Ledger speak for themselves. They show that people who know how to advertise know also want to advertise.

A Catholic Priest, claiming to be from Paris, on the Texas train, headed by whisky or else drugged, tried "to smash the jaw" of a passenger and was badly worsted.

The Empress Eugenie has presented to the Paris Museum of Decorative Arts all the plans and drawings prepared for the ornamentation of her private apartments in the Tuilleries.

The sister who fails to speak to the strange lady in the congregation because "I never met her," will probably find herself wandering around alone some day in heaven, wishing somebody would die and come up whom she has "met."

That there are only twenty-four towns in Massachusetts which possess no public library, speaks well for the light in which the people of this Commonwealth regard the influence of good books. What other state can match this showing?

A good many years ago when sewing machines sold for $50 a farmer living near Haverhill, Mass., borrowed one from a neighbor and bought one, says The Clarion. The principal or interest was neither paid, and the note was renewed from time to time. The estate is being settled up, and it will take something over $250 to cancel the obligation. Today this amount would buy nearly a carload of sewing machines.

BOLD, BAD BOLTER.

"Judge" Rumrums in the Role of a Real Moser.

Frankfort Special to Louisville Post, Feb. 25th.

A big delegation of Lewis county citizens, including County Attorney, Circuit Clerk and many other officers, is here to today to protest against the course being pursued by Senator Rumrums in refusing to vote for Dr. Hunter. The Senator declines to say what effect, if any, the influences being brought to bear on him will have.

Frankfort Special to Commercial Gazette.

Judge Rumrums, who has refused to vote for Hunter, explains his position in this wise: "I have voted for some time and see that he cannot win, and am voting for another man, hoping that he will attract sufficient support to win. I am representing the wishes of my constituents." Letters from the county officials of Judge Rumrums's District, which have been sent to him, advise him to support the Republican nominee until another candidate is placed in the field. I have read one of these letters and it must have been the Judge's fair ear.

Doan's Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound for imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be soon got out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

J. J. CLEMENT & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, etc.

